

Is it possible to live without a heart? MITRA (28) wants to try it out. Unfortunately she had not counted on the side effects.

Mitras heart is broken by PETER (34) and her dear life is once more a pile of smashed crockery. She falls into a depression. Her best friend VERA (30), a police officer, cannot stand the grief of Mitra anymore. She persuades the desperate romantic to a visit with a Voodoo priest. MADAME FIORA (65) had provided good services to Veras Mutter, who was already in a similar situation as Mitra.

The priest sees in Mitras love life only Darkness. Mitra wishes because of this forecast and because of her present success in love things that Madame Fiora should take her heart out. Madame Fiora fulfills her wish.

In the beginning Mitra really seems to feel better. However, the vegetarian soon develops a ravenous hunger on raw meat. This hunger seems to be satisfied as Mitra unexpectedly sees Peter again. She lures him into a dark corner and in an animalistic drunkness she tears his heart out to eat it. It is the beginning of a murder series and the victims are always men who treat their women badly. In the beginning Mitra feels bad about it but soon she sees herself as an avenger of the suppressed women.

Now Mitras problem is that Vera investigates in the "Thieve of heart-murder" series. Vera seems to clear up the case soon. Mitra sees only two options for herself: To confess Vera everything or to get rid of her. When Vera finally tells Mitra excitedly that the serial killer has lost a hair to the last scene, she confesses the policewoman everything. Vera is horrified and wants of course that Mitra should make the clean sweep. Mitra explains her that she has that murder hunger and that she only selected "assholes" who earned it. She thinks that she provided a good service to the society. When Vera sees her friend in such a way, she feels guilty. It was her advice that she should go to Madame Fiora. She wants to turn to the Voodoo Priest to ask her to take the curse of Mitra. Mitra swears that she won't kill anybody while Vera is away.

The policewoman buys a gigantic stock of raw meat for her friend. Then she visits Madame Fiora who refuses the favor. A taken out heart cannot be replaced any more. In low spirits Vera returns to her friend and prepares the dinner. Lost in thoughts she snips vegetable when she cuts herself in the finger. Mitra is there immediately, feels drawn from the blood massively and sucks at the wound. The blood seems to damp her hunger. Happily both women look at each other. They have an idea. They lure the irritating cat from a neighbour into the house. Mitras hunger is really satisfied after the pleasure of the cat's blood.

The Thieve of hearts murder series stops therefore suddenly. It could never clear up.

In the end we see Mitra and Vera happily in front of the television. Vera with tomato juice and Mitra with animal blood in the glass.